

Drinks Serious Eat

April 2014

USA

serious eats

Drinks

“A REALLY NICE ORANGE CURAÇAO GOES A LONG WAY”

Ask a Bartender: What's One Bottle That Will Up Your Cocktail USA-PFcuraçao-Drinksseriouseat-042014 Game?

No home bar will ever be as well-stocked as a professional one. But there are some bottles that can let you make dozens of drinks, instantly upping your cocktail game. We asked bartenders across the country: What's one bottle that will expand your cocktail horizons? Here's what they had to say.

"A really nice orange curaçao goes a long way. I would recommend Pierre Ferrand Dry Orange Curaçao for making great Mai Tais, Corpse Revivers, or even more obscure drinks like a curaçao punch (fresh lemon, cognac, Jamaican rum, orange curaçao and soda water)." — Chris Burkett (Cusp Dining & Drinks)

